Republicans Abroad is a tax-exempt, political, non-profit organization under the IRS tax code. Contributions to Republicans Abroad are not tax deductible. The IRS has determined Republicans Abroad is a 527 organization, exempt from Federal Income Tax. Contributions to Republicans Abroad are not subject to FEC regulations or disclosure requirements and corporate donations are permitted. Republicans Abroad is required to report the names and addresses (and occupation and employer, if an individual) of all persons who contribute $200 or more, and of all persons receiving expenditures of $500 or more. Republicans Abroad does not advocate the election or defeat of any Federal Candidate and is not authorized by any Candidate or Candidate's Committee.

Two hundred years after the Declaration of Independence, Americans living abroad had no vote and no voice in government. As taxation without representation was the issue that triggered the American Revolution, the disenfranchised citizens, inspired by the actions of the Sons of Liberty organized a massive letter-writing campaign, stuffing tea bags into envelopes and mailing them to their representatives in Washington, D.C. As a result, in 1976, President Gerald Ford signed a bill permitting Americans overseas to register and vote absentee in presidential and congressional primaries and elections. Since 1978, Republicans Abroad mobilizes Americans overseas to support Republican candidates in US elections.

“I have known Republicans Abroad over the years and its mission has been to integrate americans overseas, especially those who adhere to republican principles, into the election process.”

*-Frank J. Fabrenkopf Jr.
President and CEO, American Gaming Association
Former Chairman, Republican National Committee
(1983-1989)*

D.C. HEADQUARTERS:

Republicans Abroad headquarters can be called on by members for special assistance in gaining information and analysis about issues of concern, or the current political debates in Washington, D.C.

“Republicans Abroad serves as a political outlet for the American entrepreneurs, businessmen and women, missionaries, teachers, lawyers and diplomats living overseas. These people, and I have met a few, are sincere and dedicated to the republican cause.”

*- Michael Steele
Chairman, GOPAC
Former Lt. Governor of Maryland*

In 1996, Newt Gingrich credited Republicans Abroad with pushing 15 Republican candidates for the House to victory after they had lost in the domestic polling and in 2000, absentee voter ballots carried the election of President George W. Bush.

Republicans Abroad has fought for issues of concern to Americans abroad, like repatriation issues, strong support of Section 911 foreign earned income exemption, anti-terrorism legislation, fair trade policies, and the inclusion of the expatriate population in the United States Census.

“Republicans Abroad continues to fight against tax matters that affect americans living and working overseas.”

*- Grover G. Norquist,
President, Americans for Tax Reform*
